ABSTRACTED-PUB-NO: US20020098154A

BASIC-ABSTRACT:

NOVELTY - Applying medication to a person's sinuses involves inhaling the medication through the nostril and holding the breath and performing a Valsalva maneuver.

DETAILED DESCRIPTION - An INDEPENDENT CLAIM is included for an aerosol sinus medication applicator, which uses a propellant gas selected from nitrogen, helium or air.

ACTIVITY - Fungicide; Antiinflammatory; Antiallergic.

No biological data given.

MECHANISM OF ACTION - None given.

USE - As a antifungal medication for applying medication to a person's sinuses having an earplug in his ear canal (claimed); for treating sinus allergies and sinus infections.

ADVANTAGE - The method provides an alternative route of delivering medications and treating sinuses if the oral treatment route currently used by physicians is not sufficiently effective and in treating eye disorders which due to the natural lacrimal drainage system routinely ending up in the sinuses.
